By DAMON RUNYON.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29.—Your Uncle Sam's most enterprising promoters of the well-known war business are collected in this city tonight, talking shop and looking forward to the regular meeting tomorrow afternoon at Franklin field, when the annual routine of trouble between the Army and Navy will be disposed of.

It is one of the customs of the managers of the football battles located at West Point and Annapolis to submit the more finished product of their respective concerns to a competitive test every year. Such material as survives the test is considered well qualified to go out collecting quarters and other trade for Andy Carnegie's armor plate jackets and the Colt and Winchester shot canisters.

The Arm of U. S. & Co. rightly holds that any man who can play football all afternoon has nothing to fear from the military fever incident in or around Calverton, P. I., or the Hale and Haig germ which indicates the President and other less noted army points. Neither need he be afraid of the book worm, octopus, arctic duty, sharks, jellyfish, animals, draw poker or any of the other dangers attendant upon a life on the re-rolling way.

This game, then, is a very important test and deserveth the letter it is attending. The future battle between the Army and Navy is expected to be a very important test and deserveth the letter it is attending.

The army squad got to today and are quartered at the Bellevue Stratford, which is an institution addicted to French conversation on its menu cards. There were forty men in the army delegation, which was headed by Captain Ernest Graves, the head coach. Harry Tottill, the famous trainer, was present, marshaling his men in the line of the West Point cadets, with their hands, and civilian residents of the post are expected to be present.

Derrick, the big guard, was not with the squad. It is said that he is still looking over his studies at the Ford McDermott school of business and stock, and is sitting up with recitations, but will join the squad in the morning. Late last year's team in the lineup tomorrow, while the army will have a few more.

It is hard to navigate for him since Thursday, gradually getting used to the roll of the decks at Franklin field, and the team is reported in fair condition. They will have six or seven years' team in the lineup tomorrow, while the army will have a few more.

It was announced today that for the first time at the games an order has been issued barring women from the press stand. Big colleges like Yale and Princeton have been excluding the fair folk, but no one else in human form from their press stands for some time, but heretofore women reporters have been permitted in the army and navy stand along with most of the spectators. Now they have been barred out and it is up to somebody to introduce a measure in congress denouncing the anti-entrance attitude of the defenders of our goal lines.

No Privates Present.

All the martial glory of the U. S. A. will be displayed here. They are distinguishable from every branch of the service present except privates. No privates have consented to attend so far as could be learned tonight. However, all the leading upholders of the Stars and Stripes of this country are coming, with the possible exception of George Cohen, and it does seem that a few privates should be secured and distributed over the beautiful scene just to vary the monotony.

Many old-time officers of the navy are already here. They are distinguishable from the army officers because they are partial to the deep-sea-going backs which still cruise along the Philadelphia coast, while the army representatives prefer

HE STOOD ON THE BRIDGE AT MIDNIGHT AS THE CLOCKS WERE STRIKING THE HOUR. EVERYONE THOUGHT HIM BUCKS AND KEPT THEIR DISTANCES. SUDDENLY HE PULLED AN ATTORNEY'S POSE AND BARKED, 'IF A NUMBER OF MEN WENT TO SOUTH AMERICA TO TAP RUBBER TREES WOULD YOU CALL THEM A RUBBER BAND?'

BACK OUT—YOU'RE IN THE WRONG SLIP.

I'M A BAD MAN, I AM. I WAS BORN IN A RATTLENAKE'S NEST, AND FED THROUGH A SIX SHOOTER, I WAS YOW—E—E.

YEA, I'M THE HOWLING WOLF OF GOBLIN GULCH, AND THIS IS MY NIGHT TO H—O—W—L!

CLEAR OUT, YIM! I'M A BAD MAN, I AM. I WAS BORN IN A RATTLENAKE'S NEST, AND FED THROUGH A SIX SHOOTER, I WAS YOW—E—E.

DO NOT YIM! NO TELL ME WHO YOU BE, HEAP PRONTO!
